THE WHITE BARN AGAIN — Last week the Pine Cone carried a painting of this barn done by Carmel seascape artist Girard Aken. We pointed out that it was probably the most photographed and painted structure of its type in northern California. This photograph by Roger Fremier, taken from a different angle than that of Aken's painting, discloses that the barn needs a coat of paint, which shows the artistic license of painters. Of course, the painter has the white on his palette.

Underdog Padres Drop Thriller To Santa Cruz High, 73-66

by Hal Gann

Those high-flying Santa Cruz Cardinals, their wings clipped by a determined underdog Padre basketball team for almost three quarters, used their superior height plus some calls that went their way, to win, 73-66, at Cabrillo College last night.

Carmel led, 17-12, at the end of the initial stanza, and had a 40-36 command at half time, at which time, in the foul department, they were just about even. Then, with four minutes gone in the third quarter, Carmel had, according to the officials, outfouled Santa Cruz, 7-2, and this gave the winners, with the benefit of a very pressing man-for-man defense, and the graceful outside shooting of their guard, Gary Guidinelli, all they needed to pile up an eight-point lead at the end of three, 62-54.

Moving into the fourth quarter, with four Padres in danger of fouling out, each with four, and with foul-phobia (fear of committing an infraction), the Cardinals had full command. Thirty-nine times the whistle blew and it ended up with 22 called against Carmel and 17 against the Cardinals. Not to count the four times Bruce Winkler had the ball and was called for traveling.

Winkler, hitting a phenomenal 10 field goals in 14 attempts in the first half, and six of seven charity tosses, registered 26. Among other things, it was the guard, Guidinelli, who turned the trick for Santa Cruz, hitting for 16.

Another contribution to the Cardinal victory was overpowering height — 6-6 Chris Sorenson, who hit for 21; 6-6 Tom Foster, who had 11, and 6-6 Dave Paul, tallying 16—all along the front wall on offense, and forming a formidable rebound pattern on the boards.

Steve Taylor of Carmel, bounding back from a severely wrenched knee injury, played an impressive all-court game, while hitting for 13. Padre Mark Spindler was good again on defense, and teammate Chris Laiolo, also plagued with foul problems, came in with his usually good game of defense, assists, and outside shooting.

"They played their hearts out, and I am sure everyone is proud of them," commented Carmel Coach Jason Harbert. "We did the best we could against such odds."

Many coaches of teams other than Carmel and Santa Cruz attended the game just to see what would happen, and at least two, completely impartial, would like to see a rematch this year between the same clubs.

This is impossible, because Santa Cruz is on its way to stardom in the Coast Counties Tournament to be held at Santa Clara.

The Padres will be back to host their 23rd Annual Carmel Invitational Basketball Tournament starting today and running through Saturday, with such other local entrants as Monterey, Pacific Grove and Junipero High Schools.

Gilroy, Gustine, Alisal and Ceres will also compete, with Carmel playing Junipero tonight at nine in a first-round game.

Next Padre basketball broadcast is tomorrow (Friday) evening, 8:30 o'clock over KRSA-FM (100.7 mc).

New Motel Expansion Request

New threat to the already dented "freeze" intent of the residential-area motel control ordinance voted into law last April, was contained in an item on last week's City Planning Commission agenda.

The item was a request for the legalizing of still another motel in Carmel's residential area.

While the Planning Commission simply delayed consideration of the item — at the applicant's request — to a future meeting, the threat implicit in the request is not necessarily dissipated by this delay.

The applicant, whose request was continued to a future Planning Commission meeting, was R. T. Ostrand, who had asked for a permit to add to his Manana Cottages, located on Camino Real near Ocean Avenue.

Many people had thought that only those who had applied for permits last spring to operate residential-area motels could ever seek such permits. Whether or not this is determined to be the case may be decided — at least in a preliminary way — when the Manana Cottages request is officially considered by the Planning Commission.

Meanwhile a series of possible hold-the-line ordinances to amend the existing residential-area motel control law came up for public hearing before the Planning Commission. Eventually the amending ordinances were returned to the committee of the commission which had been considering them, for further study and possible revision. The committee is composed of Commissioners Olof Dahlstrand, Dorothy von Meier, and Charles McEwen. The amending ordinances were drawn to attempt to prohibit additional units, floor area and kitchens in the residential-area motels, and also to redefine with more exactitude how those motels can be identified.

In other action at last week's meeting the Planning Commission authorized interior reconstruction at the Stonehouse Motel in the owner's kitchen; referred to its design review committee a request from Robert Derr to do residential construction on a steeply sloping property and allowed Jitka Kratky to use a parcel of land which was sufficient in size, but not a lot of record, as a building site.

School Board Hears Report On Educationally Handicapped

By Margot Hyatt

In the absence of board president Steven H. Sassoon who is in Community Hospital following an automobile accident, the Carmel District School Board meeting was led by Dr. Hilton M. Bialek last night.

A report describing the educationally handicapped program was given by Dr. James Halcomb, assistant superintendent of instructional services.

The three teachers who carry out the program, Shirley Taylor at Middle School, Elaine Sandberg at River School and Patrick Allen at Carmelo School, were on hand to tell of the successes and problems of the first year's operation.

The theme which ran through all their reports was that of reward for good efforts, stars or whatever, and giving the youngsters tasks at which they could succeed.

In addition Allen was able to use the "follow me" leadership which only a man can give. He described a field trip in which a boy crawled to the top of a mountain for the first time.

A few in the program have already been recommended to return to regular classes, but for most it is a slow process of retraining. Dr. Taylor pointed out that these children, some of them violent, would have been disruptive in regular classes.

District psychologist Tom Sanford described the difficulties — visual, perceptual, auditory, anxiety and failure complexes, physical coordination, emotional, maturational, epileptic, motivational and family problems — which cause these children to need special help.

"Intervention at the lower level," he said, "will eliminate behavior problems later. We are really saving children."

Miss Taylor mentioned the therapy sessions which counsellor Jay Criddle holds once a week. She expressed the

Baha'i Observes Intercalary Day

From Feb. 26 through Mar. 1, members of the Baha's Faith will observe their Intercalary Days, the four days immediately preceeding the 19-day Baha'i Fast.

They will be observed locally in Carmel with an open house at the home of Laura Smithson on Tuesday evening; at the home of the Arthur Davis on Wednesday; and on Thursday the Seaside Community will host an informal reception for visiting Ellen McAllister.

Friday evening the Carmel Baha's Community will host a fellowship meeting at House of Peace to which representatives of many Baha'i Communities throughout the state will come.

This will be followed on Saturday by an all day work service project sponsored by the Baha's Faith and the Local Organization of Volunteer Energy in cooperation with the Anti-Poverty Council, Young Adults for Action, and the Welfare Agency.

The work projects will be aimed at assisting the poor, sick and elderly throughout the Peninsula with clean-up, patch-up, paint-up services. The day will terminate with a supper at the Seaside Area Service Center, for Baha'is and their friends.

he Intercalary Day events will climax Sunday morning with a pre-dawn breakfast at House of Peace followed by prayers at the Carmel Beach to welcome the Baha'i Fast, the 19-day period of soul searching, spiritual inventory taking, and growth in preparation for the new year, (NAW-RUZ) Mar. 21.

An Ad in the Pine Cone Is a Better Value

RLS Reports

By Peter Meckle

At this writing, the campus is beginning to hum with the activity of preparing the annual Bazaar and Carnival.

The affair, to be held Saturday, Mar. 8, is one of the major events of the school year involving nearly all the boys and guided by the able and devoted efforts of the mothers in the Sponsors' Club.

A recent note to us from Tom Hudson indicates that the raffle, one of the most popular events of the Bazaar, is off to a marvelous start. A large number of donated prizes, ranging in value from $15.00 to $40.00, have been received. However, Mrs. Hudson states that her mailbox is large enough to contain a fine tape recorder or television set should some boy's father happen to be considering sending the "big plum" of the raffle.

The varsity basketball team wound up their regular season last week with a record of 15 wins and 5 losses — the best in the school's history. Coach Wallace Goodwin led the Pirates to second place in the Coast Athletic Association.

Jeff Erlandson and Eric Paulsen were honored by making the All-League First Team. Special mention should be made of Barry Biggerstaff who was voted the most valuable player in the Frosh-Soph Division of the League.

The campus dramatists, under the direction of Mrs. Rosemary Garrison, are beginning to polish their presentation of Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" to be performed on Mar. 21 and 22. Though the play will be open to the public on both evenings, it is suggested that parents and friends mark the 22nd, Saturday, as the evening to attend.

Curtain time is 8:15 and we urge you to schedule this fine production in your weekend plans.

HOT OFF THE PRESS — Students from the Monterey Peninsula attending the Monterey Bay Academy near Watsonville inspect the first color prints off the school press announcing the presentation of "Insight" at Sunset Auditorium on Feb. 28, 29 and 30. From left, Charles, sophomore, Dale White, a senior, and Doniese Baker, from Carmel, also a senior. Kneeling is Richard Regester, industrial arts instructor at the non-denominational boarding school operated by the Seventh Day Adventists. Full details on the exciting "Insight" on page 7.

Democratic Women Furnishing Hqtrs.

Democratic women are furnishing the new Democratic Headquarters which opened Feb. 17 at 2317 Fremont St. in Monterey. They need folding chairs, card tables, a typewriter, a radio, table lamps, doormat, and all kinds of office supplies, which may be donated by calling Maureen Davis at 624-2420.

The Headquarters will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. Those who wish to volunteer their help to man it, may call 624-4297. Registrars are also needed and may call Mrs. Peterson at 424-0991, Ext. Election Department, to find out when registrar courses are given.

OBITUARY

Kenneth Joseph Snyder, 28, was found dead at his home in Palo Colorado Canyon recently. Native of New York City, he served as captain in the armed forces in Vietnam.

Lyceum Workshop

Navy Lieutenant Gerald L. Barksdale Jr., an instructor of Computer Science at the Naval Postgraduate School, is conducting a computer workshop for the Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula. The program is held on Wednesdays from Feb. 12 to March 26 at the Naval Postgraduate School.

This volunteer program, designed for students in grades 11 and 12 with exceptionally high aptitude in mathematics, is entitled "Introduction to Digital Computers."

Professor Walter S. Brainerd, of the department of mathematics at the Naval Postgraduate School, is conducting a workshop on "Rational Processes and Emotional Processes" for the Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula.

Students of grade 11, of high academic ability with particular interest in mastering the complexities of logical thinking, are attending the workshop.

The purpose of the workshop is to develop understanding skills to help students work more effectively as individuals and as leaders and members of groups.

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

The Air-Conditioned Hairpiece

Businessman Allan Swenson plays tennis in Basking Ridge, N. J., wearing undetectable hairpiece, plastic cast assured perfect fit.

MILLBRAE, California – Something new will be worn under the sun this year by thousands of men who want to "play it cool" – an air conditioned hairpiece.

"Besides offering bald men a cooler summer, the hairpieces make them look years younger," reports former U.S. Senator Glen H. Taylor, who twice campaigned for a Senate seat as a bald man. It took a third effort – and a hairpiece he created – to win election.

The customized Taylor Topper rides on a cushion of air 1/32 of an inch above the wearer's head, resting on four small pedestals.

Secret of the hairpiece is its construction. First, a plaster cast is made of the wearer's head and small samples of the client's hair are taken.

The cast is used to make a thermoplastic base that will precisely fit the contour of the client's head. Then hairs, matched against the samples for color and texture, are inserted in the soft, scalp-like plastic base by hand and rooted under tons of pressure.

Numerous ventilation pores in the base enable fresh air to circulate freely, keeping the wearer's scalp cool and dry.

Noting that 100,000 men purchased hairpieces last year, Taylor, founder of Taylor Topper of California, predicted that sales will double this year and exceed the $20 million of 1967 "as more men realize the value of a youthful appearance in today's business world."

Though the air conditioned hairpiece will play a significant role in the industry's growth, Taylor credits wives with being a key sales factor.

"After all," he noted, "how many wives really prefer bald husbands?"

Winter's Heavy Hand Reflected In PG & E Survey

Fresh information from Pacific Gas and Electric Company snow surveyors added weight today to predictions that this winter will be the "big one" in California's Sierra.

It's a season that has brought heavy snow, gales or hurricane-force winds, falling trees and other problems throughout the high country of Northern and Central California.

And it already is virtually tied with the 1951 - '52 winter — until now the most severe in the Sierra Nevada in the last half century — in snow depth at California's oldest active survey station.

That's PG&E station at Donner Summit, where measurements were started in April of 1910.

Last Friday, Feb. 7 — before the latest storm — the snow depth at Donner was 152.2 inches.

PG&E, whose troubleshooters have battled numerous storm-triggered problems in almost a non-stop effort through the early days of 1969, makes snow depth measurements at 50 Sierra survey courses — contributing to California's cooperative surveys conducted by the State Department of Water Resources.

Usually February and March produce the heaviest amount of snow in the Sierra, which adds to the "big one" prediction.

As February began with renewed stormy weather, PG&E issued a warning to skiers and snow buggy operators to avoid danger from high voltage lines perilously close to snow levels. Skiers in the high country, it cautioned, should use only supervised ski runs.

Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

A new biography of Gordon Craig was written by his son Edward Craig, and is a delightful first-hand account of the famous man who lived for 94 excitement packed years.

Gordon Craig was the illegitimate son of actress Ellen Terry and architect Edward Godwin. He was their second child, the first one being a girl named Edith. He was born in 1872 and died in France in 1966. He chose the name of Gordon Craig for himself and his children after him.

He was one of the most talented, most unconventional, most fascinating men ever to grace the world of the theatre and this book by his son does him full credit. Reading it is an emotional as well as a literary experience. The title is his name, Gordon Craig.

A collection of writings by Ambrose Bierce is edited by Ernest Hopkins and is entitled The Ambrose Bierce Satanic Reader.

Known for his biting wit, Bierce was for years a contributer to the San Francisco Examiner and a friend of George Sterling, the latter consideration giving him some slight connection to the Carmel area. He died in 1914 but the circumstances of his death are unknown.

Critics tell us that Bierce was not a great writer and yet his name and his work continue to be known and considered. Hence this new collection.

The ever interesting mystery of The Fall of Khrushchev is the title and the subject of a book by William Hyland and Richard Shryock.

The two authors are employee of the Federal government and they have given their book an interesting format in that each section of the text has it's own section of notes and bibliography immediately following it.

This gives the book a scholarly mein, but it actually reads like a mystery story.

The downfall of the Russian Premier followed the Cuban missile crisis and the facing down by President Kennedy, with subsequent plotting by the various members of the Russian governmental high command.

Being mildly allergic to collections of any kind, this librarian was surprised by taking delight at Fifty Years, Being a Retrospective Collection of Novels, Novellas, Tales, Drama, Poetry, and Reportage and Essays. . . . Issued During The Last Half Century by Alfred and Blanch Knopf.

Covering the years 1916-1965, it covers also the years during which the Knopfs were publishing well written, beautifully formed books under their colophon of the Borzoi, and always with a short paragraph explaining to those who cared what kind of paper was used in the book and the name of the type and a bit about how that type came to be. It was a gentle thing and seemed to remove publishing from the money realm and put it into the realm of craftsmanship.

And finally, for today, let us take a brief look at a big book called Wells Fargo, An Illustrated History by Noel Loomis. This is the history of the express company and the bank and is fascinating, being adorned with several hundred pictures and readable text.

It's the history of the West, folks!

Laguna Seca Holds Three '69 Events

Laguna Seca raceway will be one of only three tracks in the nation to run all three Sports Car Club of America professional road races in 1969, with big-name drivers expected in all events.

Laguna Seca Continental Championship for Formula Cars is scheduled for May 3 and 4. Aug. 23 and 24 is slated for the Laguna Seca Trans Am Championship. The Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix (Can Am) will be run Oct. 10 through 12.

Formula A cars with American 305 cubic inch V-8 engines make up the field in the first race of the season, with Formula B cars having smaller engines in separate contests, making this a two-race program.

Mustangs, Javelins, Firebirds, Cougars, Darts and similar American cars round out the field of the August Trans-Am.

UP WITH PEOPLE — Romance culminates in the marriage of the former Mary Baker Galiway, of Carmel, member of the international cast of young singers, and William Wishard III, of Indianapolis, business manager of UP WITH PEOPLE. Following their reception at Del Monte Lodge, luncheon for 170 guests was served after the wedding at All Saints' Episcopal Church.

Michele Miller, Bob Evans Jr. Married

The wedding of Michele Miller and Robert Hampden Evans Jr. at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Royden Martin and Mr. Martin of Carmel was recently announced. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Evans of Carmel.

They were married in a candlelight ceremony by the Rev. Karel V. Vit of the Monterey Peninsula Unitarian Church, after which there was a reception at the Martin home.

Michele wore a pale grey cotton lace afternoon dress and carried a spray of phaelanopsis. She was attended by Miss Sally Hammond, her cousin.

Walter Jones Jr. served as the groom's best man.

Michele has appeared in many productions at the Studio Theater which the groom purchased from the Martins. She attended Carmel schools and was graduated from Stagg High School in Stockton after which she attended Delta and Tahoe Paradise College.

Both attended Monterey Peninsula College and the University of Houston in Texas.

Fashion Show Plans Made

Plans are being completed for the annual Symphonie d'-Elegance luncheon and fashion show to be held at the Carmel Valley Country Club on Tuesday, March 11, to be given by the Monterey Peninsula Symphony Guild.

Strolling violinists from the symphony orchestra will entertain and guild members will model I. Magnin clothes under the chairmanship of Mrs. Stein.

PINE NEEDLES

By MARGOT HYATT — Call 624-3881

Coals from Newcastle Given Lansdownes

Mack and Mary Agnes Lansdowne are about to move into their beautiful new "Country French" home in La Rancheria in Carmel Valley.

To celebrate the "hearth lighting," Mrs. Lansdowne prepared an elegant champagne luncheon, served informally in the still empty house. The architect, Herb Lawton of San Francisco, the contractor Doug Leach and Mrs. Leach, the head carpenter. John Anderson, Mrs. Webster Downer, Mrs. Allman Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Lansdowne made up the intimate group.

Appropriate gifts were the order of the day. There were two golden keys to the house and a cricket for the hearth. The most original offering came from Scotsman John Anderson, who had real coals from Newcastle flown here for the event. A traditional sentiment was included. "Long may your lum reek wi' ither folks coal."

The Landsdowns have been living in Carmel since Captain Lansdowne's retirement from the Navy. They are realizing a dream of many years in building their home on acreage they have owned for 25 years.

Tea in Switzerland

Mrs. Frederika Strachwitz of Carmel was guest of honor at a tea given by Mrs. John Livingstone on February fourth in Villars-sur-Ollon, Switzerland.

Mrs. Strachwitz was visiting friends and relatives in Switzerland and Austria. She arrived carrying a beautiful arrangement of red and yellow tulips. She was able to converse easily in French, German and English with Mrs. Livingstone's Swiss and American guests.

Mrs. Strachwitz brought along beautiful Carmel weather; a warm sun shone on newly fallen snow.

It was a special treat for the Livingstone to hear news of Carmel. The Livingstones moved to Switzerland last August.

Bertolucci La Specia

Bernice Huber and Stan Spohn of Carmel, Lucile Herbert and Jean Hofsas, Carmel Valley, members of the Artists' Coop Galleries in Carmel Valley, were guests of honor at a reception at Casa Carmela in the Valley.

Celebrating the second anniversary of the restaurant, an exhibit of 16 paintings from the gallery will hang in the restaurant through March.

Bertolucci La Specia was the main food offering. Cake was served by Charlene Will and wine punch by Mary Ann Yuma, according to Mrs. Tom Bottara.

The Big One Got Away

Mr. and Mrs. C. Chandler Smith flew down to Baja, California recently in their own plane. Mary caught a 77-pound rooster — but lost the big marlin.

Letter From Sante Fe

Esther Longfellow writes from Sante Fe, "This climate and the area are so exhilarating that one feels restless; some sort of urge to get out and walk and look and look!

"And since the sun shines every single day and one can see in all directions without high rise buildings of any sort to break the view — well, it is exciting and free: earth and sky and sweet winds on my face!

"I do love it here although I'd give a lot for a familiar Carmel friend coming toward me! I miss the people with their relaxed, friendly, cheerful greetings!"

Nuptial Mass in Carmichael

Lt. Col. Raymond E. McDonough (USA ret) and Mrs. McDonough announce the marriage of their daughter, Deborah Jane to John Patrick Murphy on Feb. 15 at Our Lady of Assumption Church in Carmichael.

Col. McDonough escorted his daughter to the altar for the ceremony performed by Father Thomas Bannon.

Deborah wore a white crepe gown with yoke and long sleeves of Venise lace and with Watteau chapel length train. A bow held her illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white butterfly roses with a white cattelya orchid in the center.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Kevin Avery of Monterey, and bridesmaids wore ruffled high neck blouses of pink with long skirts and head pieces of burgundy velvet. They carried nosegays of pink carnations with streamers of gurgundy and pink.

Miss Julie Zack and Masters James and Jerry Zack, the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Zack of Carmel, passed the rice mementos to the guests during the reception at the Fireside Room at McClellan Air Force Base, Sacramento. Guest book attendant was Mr. Gunnar Sande of Pacific Grove, a family friend of long standing.

The couple will live in Carmichael following a honeymoon in Mexico.

The groom is the son of Lt. Col. John Murphy (USA ret) and Mrs. Murphy of Carmichael.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Clifford A. Brown of Pacific Grove.

Col. and Mrs. McDonough are the managers of the Carmel Cottages.

Carmel School Board and County Board Problems Assessed by LWV Observers

An assessment of Carmel School Board and Monterey County School Board problems was made at the last luncheon meeting of the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Edwin B. (Mardi) Miller of Carmel reported her observations of the Carmel board, Mrs. Helen Cowan Wood, Carmel, the Monterey County Board of Education.

Mrs. Miller found no fault with the present board which contains no dominating member and which is well balanced between members with both traditional and innovative points of view.

She admired the challenging new courses at Carmel High School which offer far more, she said, than the bare bones necessary for graduation.

She pointed out that the Adult School serves about 900 people with a variety of courses.

Mrs. Miller noted the problems in connection with serving 3072 children in a 600 square mile district compared with six square miles in Pacific Grove for 3652 children.

Since the average Carmel house costs $40,000 the average age of homeowner is 45-50 years ago. Sixty per cent of the registered voters have no children.

She reported that the 37c override had properly been used to improve the buildings and grounds and noted the participation in the regional occupation program.

County Board of Education

Mrs. Helen Cowan Wood of Carmel remarked the tense atmosphere of the Monterey County Board of Education, the sectional rivalry, lack of trust between board members and officials and failure to understand the role of the board as policy maker.

She noted the accomplishments of the county office of education in spite of all these drawbacks, in the field of job training among drop-outs, children's health and welfare, coordination of school district services, cooperative pioneering and dissemination of good practices.

Mrs. Wood commended the services to the Head Start program, family life education and the summer workshop for counsellors to let them know the needs of local industry.

She emphasized the importance of citizen interest in selecting board members who put the interests of all children ahead of sectional interests.

She raised the question of whether the county superintendent might not better be appointed and responsible to an elected board.

All present were urged by league president, Alice Ellis, to write U. S. Senators, George Murphy and Alan Cranston to urge ratification of the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty.

They were also urged to write Walter Hickle, new Secretary of the Interior, to demand regulations of off shore oil drilling, and to State Senator Grunsky and Assemblyman Alan Pattee, chairman of governmental efficiency committee, to ask for legislation preventing oil drilling in Monterey Bay.

Library Mothers' Tea

Volunteer mothers at the Woods School Library met recently for a tea and talk by Mrs. Mildred Armstrong, children's book department at the Thunderbird Book Store, Carmel Valley.

Mrs. Mel Van Bibber and Mrs. Malcolm Jones were hostesses for the tea. Library volunteers attending were Mesdames David Banks, Jerry Campbell, Joseph De Angelis, Edwin Lundblad, Saul Heffes and David Morse.

The subject of Mrs. Armstrong's talk was "Books in the Home." She has had vast experience in working with children and books, having been the children's librarian in Pasadena for a number of years. She brought a number of books to show the guests some of which were new pocket size books and some interesting translations from foreign countries.

Our Schools

More Effective Ways of Improving Behavior at Home and School Told

Dr. Gene England, educational psychologist, head of Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing, led a discussion at River School recently of more effective ways of improving learning and behavior of children both at school and at home.

He advocated a reward, tangible and/or social, given immediately after the desired behavior, rather than punishment which doesn't tell a child what he may do.

Timing is crucial, he said. If a reward, such as parental attention or peer giggling, occurs immediately after undesirable behavior, later punishment may have little long range effect. (Promising a spanking when father gets home after little brother has already giggled is usually useless.)

Likewise promising money for a good report card is not nearly so effective as giving a reward immediately after a good study time of 10 minutes.

Although we all learn best by reward, punishment to protect life and limb of the child or others may sometimes be appropriate, but placing a child by himself in isolation is a more effective punishment, and far better than yelling or nagging.

He suggested reading Living With Children: New Methods for Parents and Teachers by Gerald R. Patterson and M. Elizabeth Gullin. Research Press, P.O. Box 2459, Station A. Champaign, Illinois 61820. (Price $3.50).

Three Women File For School Board

Two more women, Mrs. Ruth Morrice of Hatton Fields and Mrs. Barbara Sanford of Carmel Valley, have filed for the Carmel School District School Board, bringing the total to six for the two vacancies.

Mrs. Morrice teaches several grades in a small private school in San Juan Bautista. A graduate of Boston University, she has taught English at the college level. She and her family have been here about four years.

She is the mother of four children: John, graduate of Carmel High School and Monterey Peninsula College, violinist with the MP County Symphony now majoring in music at San Jose State College; Christina, who is at UC Santa Barbara on several CHS scholarships; Eleanor, who is in the 8th grade Middle School; and George, in the fourth grade at River School.

Mrs. Sanford is a Stanford graduate in Economics and history, with a fifth year at Fresno State College from which she earned an elementary credential. She has taught fourth grade for two years in San Diego.

She and her husband, William Sanford, head of the art department at King Jr. High, have lived in Carmel for nearly 11 years.

They have four children, two at Middle School, Elizabeth 14, an 8th grader and William II, 10, a 5th grader. Mark, 7, attends first grade at Carmel, and Byrne, 4½, will enter school in the fall.

Music Auditions for Young Performers

The Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula announces two auditions for gifted musicians. One will be for a pianist, the other for string performers. Both auditions will be held on Saturday morning and afternoon, Mar. 22, at Monterey Peninsula College music hall.

A cash award of $100 will be given to the winner in each category as well as an opportunity to appear in concert for the Chamber Music Society later in the year.

Teachers are invited to apply now for application blanks and we urge all talented young students to participate.

Further information and application forms can be obtained by telephoning Rev. H. M. M. Nicholas, 624-6533, Mrs. Rosario Mazzeo, 624-7014 or Miss Angie Machado, 624-4166.

General qualifications for each student are:

Shall not be more than 21 years of age — Must be a resident of Monterey, Santa Cruz or San Benito counties — Must be proficient in performing music of concert caliber — Should memorize his selection for the audition — Should confine his audition to fifteen minutes unless he had made a previous understanding.

One of the major purposes of the Chamber Music Society (a non-profit organization) is to stimulate young students in this musical area through this annual contest.

Morrison Quartet Warmly Received Here

Due to a conflict in dates with the Explorerama the Carmel Chamber Music Society turnout was not up to capacity for the Morrison String Quartet Friday at Carmel Museum of Art.

The San Francisco State College students demonstrated the talent which made them all winners of the May Morrison Chamber Music Awards. Perhaps the most outstanding talent among them was that of the cellist, Rosslyn Thorp, but ensemble work was very smooth in both the Prokolieff and the Brahms Quintet for which they were joined by pianist, Renee Chevalier.

Fortunately, many unable to make the concert Friday evening were able to hear it at the Highlands Inn on Saturday evening or on Sunday afternoon at the Thunderbird Book Shop in Carmel Valley, all delightful spots in which to listen to fine music.

Three Workshops Sponsored by MPMA

Reservations are now being taken for three different workshops sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art to be held during the spring and summer.

The first will be taught by Raymond Brose of Palo Alto and the San Jose State College faculty who will give traditional instruction in "The Techniques of Oil Painting" in four morning sessions from Mar. 31 through Apr. 3.

The second series will have internationally known Alexander Nepote as instructor, and will be given from June 2 through 5. This contemporary series will feature acrylics and collage and will stress form and composition by this master-painter, to whose works the word 'monumental' is often applied.

Third of the presently-scheduled sessions will offer instruction by George De Groat of Southern California, who has taught many classes in this area. By the popular request of his large local following, he will return this August to give classes in modern techniques, media, and styles. Exact dates will be announced later.

These workshops are open to all painters from beginners through advanced, with the only limitation being the size of the classes. Advance reservations are required for each, and all who are interested are urged to register as soon as possible by calling the Museum, 624-2918.

All classes will be held in the Sunset Center cafeteria from 9 a.m. to noon on the scheduled days.

Area artists are also reminded that the museum sponsors a Life Workshop each Wednesday at the Sunset Center cafeteria beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Zantman's Shows European Artists

By Louise Cook

Zantman Gallery is proudly presenting a dazzling exhibition of paintings and graphics by contemporary French artists. These were acquired during Mr. and Mrs. Zantman's recent trip to Europe. The show opened with a preview party on Saturday evening, Feb. 22.

In "Saint Jean Croix de Vie" Jacques Voyet, merely using bright cubes of color, suggests a village along the river. In his many harbor scenes, various shades of blue dominate. They vibrate but never overflow.

The dark, haunting eyes in Voyet's three portraits of women leave a lasting impression. In his floral paintings he uses extreme contrasts of color in which he achieves surprisingly harmonious results.

Guy Cambier gives his village scenes an unforgettable feeling of magic. His woodland landscapes suggest the soft mistiness of Corot. His tender and beautiful portraits point up his ingenious talent for harmonious use of color and subtle texture.

In Cambier's "Personnage Sous Bois" the red jacket of the horseman contrast with the cool woodland greens and the nonchalantly posed nude figures, achieving a mood of fantasy.

Among the stark buildings and naked trees of expressionistic artist Michel de Gallard, there is always a spark of red to relieve the neutral tones.

In the warm colors, meticulous brush strokes and glazed surface of primitive artist, Max Savy's, mountain and orchard scenes there is a definite influence of the Persian miniature.

There is a humor about Jean Jansen's elegant color drawings of slightly elongated nude figures.

Among the collectors of James Taylor, an Englishman who paints in France, is Queen Elizabth. His oil wash of children shows a master's hand.

Another important French artist, Michel Ciry, whose work the Zantman's were fortunate to acquire, decorates his deserted landscapes with angular, twiggy trees in soft monotone colors.

In the lithograph room can be seen the latest series of lithos by Bernard Buffet, a complete set of 44 which he entitled "The Circus."

Pet Care Facts Offered Free

A newly-published pamphlet on basic dog and cat care entitled "How to Care" is being offered free to pet owners by the Animal Protection Institute of America, a national humane society based in Sacramento, California.

The pamphlet covers essential requirements for pet health, feeding grooming, safety and compliance with the law.

Belton P. Mouras, API President, in announcing the offer, said the new brochure is easy to understand, and was written with the hope of raising the level of care provided pets throughout the nation.

The free pamphlet may be obtained by writing How to Care, Box P, Sacramento, California 95813.

Bay Academy Presents Dialogue, Music for High School Students

They call it "Insight."

And it is coming to Carmel's Sunset Auditorium for three nights, starting Friday, February 28.

"They" are students from Monterey Bay Academy, a school on the bay just west of Watsonville.

The academy is a co-educational boarding high school operated by the Seventh-day Adventist church but accepting students of any faith who meet other non-religious requirements. (For example, the Thai students with Oriental religious backgrounds are currently enrolled with the other 350 students living on campus.)

David Johnston, editor of their weekly student publication, "The Paper," reports that "Insight" was created by students who think that today's issues on campus and in the rest of society are brought into sharp focus only in terms of relevant religious concepts.

"We hope to put the swing back into life which around us is slipping into apathy or even hopelessness itself," Dale White, a Peninsula resident and one of the student leaders of "Insight," said.

"Insight" is produced by students and is designed for students. This includes everything from the music, and there's plenty of that to the staging," David reports.

"Students can expect to hear some powerful propositions made and to become involved in exploring some current issues," the editor noted, "but we don't do any preaching — we don't have time for that."

Before and after each "Insight" presentation, MBA students will be happy to meet students who come and discuss issues of common interest, David reports.

Audubon Canyon Ranch Reopens

Audubon Canyon Ranch, located three miles north of Stinson Beach on Shoreline Highway, will open its gates to the public from Mar. 1 to July 4 on Saturday, Sunday and holidays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The ranch will be open Wednesday through Friday to school groups, clubs and other organizations.

On Jan. 28, a first contingent of eight Great Blue Herons returned to their traditional nesting site in the redwoods of Audubon Canyon Ranch which has recently been declared a Natural Landmark.

Each day since the first arrivals, herons have been observed in the heronry making preparations for mating and nesting which should begin later in the month.

The close proximity of Audubon Canyon Ranch and the Bolinas Lagoon, the principle feeding ground for the birds, provides the visitor with a readily observable lesson in ecology.

Teachers, group leaders and others interested in Canyon Ranch activities should call 415-868-0563 or write Audubon Canyon Ranch, Shoreline Highway, Stinson Beach, Calif. 94970.

Christian Science Bible Lesson

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Bible Lesson-Sermon to be heard at Christian Science churches this Sunday. The Golden Text is from Ephesians: "Ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellowcitizens with the saints, and of the household of God; and are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone."

Correlated passages from the denominational textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, will include the following: "Christianity as Jesus taught it was not a creed, nor a system of ceremonies, nor a special gift from a ritualistic Jehovah; but it was the demonstration of divine Love casting out error and healing the sick, not merely in the name of Christ, or Truth, but in demonstration of Truth, as must be the case in the cycles of divine light."

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

"Are Men The Better Cooks?"

"Men cook because they want to, women because they have to!" exclaimed Carmel bachelor Joseph Olivier. Master chef Norbert Brendel quickly bantered: "I cook not only because I want to but also because I have to!"

As our Peninsula is noted for pro-am events, "Party Plans" will interview pro chefs and amateur men cooks. If there could be anymore naturally friendly than Norbert, young executive chef at the new Del Monte Hyatt House, we wouldn't even want to look further.

From Hanau, Germany, Norbert began his apprenticeship in the Hotel Kurhaus where many heads of states dined. Then followed Bad Kreuznach and Basel, Switzerland. In Frankfurt, Norbert joined the chefs who prepared all Lufthansa meals. This is the German airline that brought him to the California Hyatt chain.

Now in our midst, listen to what this 27-year-old has accomplished here within a month's time.

The grand opening press party of Del Monte Hyatt House. Then the gala Heart Fund pro-am hors d'oeuvre contest. Seven hundred paying guests descended like locusts upon the intricate offerings, some of which had taken days to patiently create.

Norbert recited these facts about his, and his capable staff's, outstanding centerpiece:

"Neptune's Fountain"

"On a 6x6 'solid rising' was a fourth of an inch thick mirror lighted with a many-kilowatt floating lamp. Four huge whole cooked salmon 'stood' at each corner like dolphins, (which seems to be a Hyatt motif). What a JOB that was to keep them from folding up!" continued Norbert, mopping his brow in memory.

The rest of the table held 150 Pacific lobsters (17 lbs. or so apiece) from Oregon and 3,000 prawns from Louisiana. The fountain dripped refreshingly. Shades of Neptune!

French Chef

Louis Borel, formerly with the Pebble Beach Club, won a pastry prize with his miniatures made from almond paste, provocative little animals, too appealing to eat!

Louis is now the capable assistant chef at Hyatt House. His very ingenious Viennese Bread Basket woven from 201 types of crusty bread with those divine rolls on top made your "Party Plans" columnist agonize with starvation.

We had dutifully seen all the fantastic displays including wild boar pate, pheasants in plummage, truffled "Lonely Pine" designed on an enormous smoked ham, but all that Phyllis wanted was just one tempting croissant. And it was defendu!

Here are Norbert's own menus and recipes . . . exclusive for "Party Plans". We asked to have them "short and simple" for "women who must and men who like to cook!"

Norbert's No. One Menu
Fresh Spinach Salad
Lobster Fra Diavolo
with Rice
Coupe Mozart

Fresh Spinach Salad

Coarsely chop carefully washed, unblemished very young spinach leaves. Remove thick stems but do not break off the tender ones. Marinate them in olive oil, wine vinegar, salt, Java pepper to taste with just a trace of sugar. Arrange this mixture in center of plates surrounded by butter lettuce hearts. Decorate with sliced hard cooked egg, black olives, pimiento strips. Serve chilled.

Lobster Fra Diavolo

Cook live lobsters, or buy them already cooked at the Old Monterey Wharf. Split in halves, remove meat, using only the edible part. Wash shells. Dice 1 small onion and garlic clove, each, for every 4 lobster halves. Saute in butter and add to lobster meat. Season with marjoram and parsley flakes. Return to shells. Flame with brandy and add diced fresh cold tomatoes on top of each.

Serve with buttered tiny new potatoes. Have lemon quarters sprinkled with paprika to pass around.

Coupe Mozart

Fill a coupe-shaped glass with rich vanilla icecream. Top with freshly sliced peaches (if unavailable, the best canned ones could be used, but not the frozen variety). Pour imported bottled raspberry syrup over each (found at local gourmet specialty markets.) Top with whipped cream and toasted sliced almonds . . . but give calorie-watchers a fair chance. Pass these separately!

Norbert's No. Two Menu
Cream of Artichoke Soup
Serbian Kisela Dahorp
Orange Ambrosia

After boiling desired number of artichokes, remove bottoms and cut into bite-size. Or use canned or glassed artichoke bottoms.

Frozen artichoke hearts are easily handled here but this is not Norbert's idea.

Saute 1 chopped onion, for every 4 artichoke bottoms, in butter. Make a roux with butter, flour, cream, diluting with chicken broth to achieve a cream soup texture. Add onions and artichoke bottom cubes. Serve very hot or very cold. When it is lukewarm, you might as well forget the whole project. Decorate with pimiento strips or chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives. Taste for salt, white pepper, paprika.

"Editors Note" A touch of Tabasco Sauce would give an extra spark.

Serbian Kisela Dahorp

Cut up a roasted leg of lamb, minus fat or gristle, into good-sized cubes. Saute 1 chopped onion and green bell pepper (not chili), each, for every 3 cups lamb cubes. In casserole, make a layer of lamb cubes, covered with the onion, bell pepper mixture. Next comes a layer of just-undercooked white rice. Be sure to taste as you go along for salt, pepper and vinegar. Add chopped canned pimiento and parsley on each layer. Bake in 350 F. oven until very well heated through. Serve from casserole at table, kept hot on electric heating tray.

This is a fetish of "Party Plans". No excuse for tepid or tasteless food.

Orange Ambrosia

Use sections of fresh oranges, minus skin, seeds and membrane. Sorry, canned ones won't do! In layers put into sherbet glass, the orange sections, sugar to taste and Madiera wine. Top with whipped cream. (Or pass this separately.)

We'll climax these chefs d'oeuvres, by telling that Norbert, Louis and staff have just finished with El Baile de Los Cascarones (there's still confettin in the kitchen . . . not their hair . . . what are chef's hats for?) . . . And now comes "Closed-not-Open House" at the Hyatt. Mr. Friend, super chief, is entertaining Hyatt VIPI's (Very Important People Indeed). Thirty lbs. of the Best Caviar . . . . pheasants . . . and all that sort of non-peasant thing, plus a special train (could it be the same old Del Monte Express we've known since its start?) . . . Shades of Lucius Beebe!

YOUTHFUL GROUP — The Oceanairs, a 32-member singing group from the Monterey Bay Academy near Watsonville, will be one of the musical features at a three-day program at Sunset Auditorium which the Academy calls "Insight." The program of music for high school students and dialogue of interest to the same age group, presented by students of the Academy, will begin Friday, Feb. 28 and run through Sunday. All teenagers and the general public as well are invited at no charge. Complete details on page 7.

'Traveling Troupe' Represents Peninsula Children's Theatre

Children's Experimental Theatre, Inc., has announced its sponsorship of Children's Theatre, widely known on the Peninsula for its traveling dramatic productions made as a gift to public and private schools.

Under the directorship of Marcia Gambrell Hovick, the performing children present more than 80 performances annually to the many schools of the area. The young actors, from all communities of the Peninsula, are from 9-18 years of age. They bring their own stage and costumes to the schools.

Saturday classes, in which youngsters receive their training and rehearsing, have been held in the Golden Bough Circle Theatre since 1960.

In 1966 The Junior League of the Monterey Peninsula sponsored its first touring group, known as "The Traveling Troupe."

Last year The Traveling Troupe presented 64 performances of "Beauty and the Beast" to 20,500 school children. Currently "The Two Brothers," an original play, is in the middle of its touring season under League sponsorship.

The innovating Children's Theatre has now grown so large that it is holding sessions and rehearsals in the Forest Theatre in Carmel.

Children's Experimental Theatre, Inc., a non-profit corporation in California, is exempt from state taxes and has made application for federal exemption.

It is currently launching a drive for scholarships and donations to support the already extensive activities of Children's Theatre.

Its officers are Mrs. G. W. Mabe, president; Dr. C. Winter Van Horn, vice president and William R. Withers, secretary and treasurer.

Its board of directors includes Marcia Gambrell Hovick, Mrs. G. W. Mabe, Mrs. Donald S. Scanlon, William M. Shanner, Mrs. Richard Wilsdon, and William R. Withers.

Felde, McGreer In Town House Recital

A song recital will be presented at The Carmel Foundation Town House at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, Mar. 5 by Mrs. Noel Felde and Dennis McGreer.

Mrs. Felde received her bachelor degree in violin and music education at the University of New Mexico and studied with Olga Reese in New York City and Aspen, Colorado.

She played in the Louisville, Ky. Symphony and was soloist in the choirs of the University of New Mexico and the University of Louisville. Mrs. Felde is now teaching violin on the Monterey Peninsula.

Dennis McGreer studied piano on a scholarship at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y. under Menahem Pressler. He received his bachelor degree at Indiana University.

He is now stationed at the Defense Language Institute where he is studying Russian. When he returns to civilian life he hopes to continue his career as a pianist.

Tea will be served after the program and all interested persons are welcome at no charge.

Movie Review

Romeo and Juliet — Franco Zeffirelli's production starring Leonard Whiting, 17, as Romeo and Olivia Hussey, 16, as Juliet. A sensitive and poetic picture shot in northern Italy where the tragedy actually occurred.

The Lion In Winter — Peter O'Toole and Katherine Hepburn turn in outstanding performances in this drama of Henry II and his queen. Great dialogue and a great film.

Prudence and the Pill — Plot revolves around misuse of the pill rather than its use. David Niven, Deborah Kerr and Judy Geeson star.

The Detective — Frank Sinatra in a demanding role as a detective who loses his identity as a man to the police department. Lee Remick and newcomer Jacqueline Bisset co-star.

Lady In Cement — Sinatra again in a detective role, this time as a private eye in Miami. Dan Blocker is the heavy. Raquel Welch is a millionairess.

The Wrecking Crew — Spy spoof with Dean Martin playing himself — cool, relaxed, smooching, drinking, the whole bit. Great comedy with Sharon Tate, Tina Louise, Elke Sommer and Nancy Kwan.

Secret Ceremony — Filmed in London, this is drama in the truest sense. Elizabeth Taylor plays a prostitute and Mia Farrow thinks she is her mother.

The Night They Raided Minsky's — Raucous replay of the broad comic world of Burlesque. Britt Ekland is the innocent and astonished ecdysiast. Stripper.

Rachel, Rachel — Paul Newman directs his wife, Joanne Woodward in a brilliant portrait of a small town school teacher. The film has been nominated for an Academy Award, as has Joanne Woodward.

The Heart Is A Lonely Hunter — Alan Arkin has been nominated for an Academy Award for his portrayal of a deaf mute. He gives a moving performance as a man of loneliness.

The Magus — Reality and fantasy become entangled in the weird encounters of a cynical young teacher (Michael Caine) with a strange old man (Anthony Quinn).

Charly — Experimental brain surgery changes a mentally retarded young man into a brilliant adult confronted with new and serious problems. Cliff Robertson, Claire Bloom.

Documentary Film Series At MPC

"A Historical Survey of the Documentary Film," a 12-session forum to be offered by Monterey Peninsula College Monday evenings March through May, will open Monday Mar. 3, 7:30 p.m. in MPC Lecture-Forum 103.

The series, selected and coordinated by Chase Weaver of the college audio-visual staff, chronologically traces the development of the "unstaged" documentary tradition in the movies from the turn-of-the-century "films of fact" of the Lumiere Brothers through the contemporary, stylistic and technical innovations of cinema-verite.

"In the process," Weaver says, "the documentary form evolved from a rather casual observant eye to a select and arranged point of view, adding new dimension — what John Grierson called 'the creative treatment of actuality.'"

Included in the program are such films as "A Girl and Her Trust," a 1912 film directed by D. W. Griffith; "Nanook of the North," Robert Flaherty's 1922 masterpiece; Grierson's "Song of Ceylon," "Night Mail" and "Granton Trawler"; Luis Bunuel's "Land Without Bread"; Leni Riefenstahl's "Triumph of the Will"; such World War II film as "Ukraine in Flames" and "Desert Victory"; four National Film Board of Canada films; "Chronicle of Summer — Paris 1960" by Jean Rouch and Edgar Morin; and many more.

Only series tickets, will be sold, and these must be reserved in advance through the MPC community services office. Registration will be limited to 300 persons. Booklets outlining the entire program are available on request.

Theatre Guide

When We Are Married — Typical British drawing room comedy laid in a small village at the turn of the century. The cast is excellent, the laughs frequent, the chuckles almost continuous. Fine stage fare at the Circle Theatre.

Under The Yum Yum Tree — Fast moving comedy about a flighty girl, her accommodating boy friend, her worldly-wise aunt and a landlord who epitomizes the wolf fraternity. Great stuff. At the Studio Theatre-Restaurant.

Carmel Travelers

(Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bannister of Orinda have had a summer vacation home in Carmel. They have just returned from South America, and their amusing letters will be carried periodically in the Pine Cone.)

Buenos dias desde Buenos Aires!

Buenos dias desde Buenos Aires!

Today, I am sorry to report, it is raining! The first rain we have had since the night we flew out of Panama. However, this gives me a good chance to get a letter off.

Jack is playing golf, and I am sure he will say on his return that it didn't really rain on the golf course. Most of the gals decided not to play golf today, since we all played yesterday — besides we wanted to finish our shopping, go to the beauty parlor, and have tea at the home of our guide! Tonight we tour the La Boca (Bohemian section of the city) which should be fun.

In order to keep this report fairly chronological, let me return to Santiago, Chile, since the last report ended with our departure from Peru. Each country we enter seems better than the last, and we are convinced that this trip definitely should be made in this sequence starting on the west side and working to the east coast, because it builds up as you go along.

We were absolutely enchanted with Chile, and this surprised me. It is an exceptionally clean country with many, many beautiful flowers, only 10 per cent illiteracy, and a very European population. It surprised me to see so many blondes and redheads, and all speaking Spanish, of course. The people are friendly and wave as we pass. The only place we felt uncomfortable, as I mentioned before, was Panama, and I feel this was probably due to the "situation" there during our visit.

Education is compulsory in Chile until the age of 15. English is also compulsory in the schools, as well as the choice of one other language, either French, German or Italian.

The contrast to Peru is very noticeable, where there are only two classes — very wealthy or very poor. Chile, on the other hand, has a middle class, and although, the average salary is only about $200 per month, with high income and withholding taxes (They say they learned this from the U.S.A.), the people are well dressed and well educated. A 1968 Chevrolet costs $15,000, American money!

Normally, Chile has a rainfall of about 15 inches per year, but this year they have had only 5 inches, so they are in the throes of a drought. At the hotel there was a sign asking us to conserve water and electricity, which was a great excuse for me not to do the washing.

In spite of the drought, the flowers were gorgeous, and we saw whole fields of carnations, stock, snap dragons, and the largest roses I have ever looked upon! Everyone buys fresh flowers for their homes if they don't grow them.

Sunday, Oct. 20, was Mother's Day, so on Saturday, when we took a drive, we saw everyone buying flowers, or picking them, and on Sunday at Church all the side altars, where the Virgin Mary statues appeared, were loaded with all different kinds of flowers. I was amazed to see millions of California poppies growing wild along the sides of the road.

Little Leaguers Sign-Up Tonight

Registration of boys in the Carmel Little League was held on Wednesday, Feb. 26th, and will also be held Thursday, Feb. 27th, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., at the Carmel Middle School library.

Boys should be accompanied by their parents and new signees must bring a birth certificate. Eligible are those who will be eight years old before Aug. 1, 1969, up to and including those who will not reach their thirteenth birthday prior to that date.

Those boys interested in joining a Senior Division Little League Team should also register at the same time and place. Those boys who are 13, 14, and 15 years old qualify. Boys living in the Carmel Valley Little League area are also eligible to join a Senior Division Team. New Senior Division signees should also bring a birth certificate and be accompanied by parents.

Six major league teams will be fielded this year. They include: Boy's Town; Camera Craft; Derek Rayne; P. A. McCreery & Co. (P. A. Macs); Cate Electric (Giants); and Carmel Sport Shop.

Minor league teams include: Mission Ranch; Carmel Plaza; Cate Electric; Cypress Plumbing; Jax Freeze; and Mediterranean Market.

For additional information call Bill Sanford at 624-1680.

Christian Science Radio Program

"Why Take Prayer Seriously" is the title of Sunday morning's program on the Christian Science radio series "The Bible Speaks to You." It will be heard over station KGO at 7:15, KRML at 7:45 and KDON at 8:45. This program defines prayer as more than desire for good but expecting to receive good because its source is in God.

Masters Concert

The following major works will be featured on the Masters Concert during the week of Feb. 27 over K-Wave Streo (96.9) at 8 p.m.

Thursday, Feb. 27—Schubert, Octet, Opus 166; Bruckner, Symphony No. 9 in D Minor.

Friday, Feb. 28 — Brahms, Violin Concerto in D, Op. 77; Beethoven, Symphony No. 5 in C Minor, Op. 67.

Skiing News

Patrick Grimshaw of Carmel Views is tour director for the Carmel Ski Club's annual bus trip to Heavenly Valley, South Lake Tahoe this weekend.

With a little luck the 35 Carmel Ski Club members making the trip may get the SUN they have been thinking of all week. There is already over 14 feet of snow at the top of Heavenly Valley.

Boarding the bus from Carmel will be, Mr. and Mrs. Grimshaw, Lt. Evelyn Wadsworth, Lt. Thomas Cochran, Miss Carol Jeter, and Gordon A. Stoddard.

Jeff's Dog Movie Star

Jeffery Barter, whose book of poetry "Waiting for a Ripple" illustrated by Marlinde von Ruhs, came out last year, left for Switzerland about a month ago with his Saint Bernard dog "Monk".

"Monk" is starring in a movie called "The Great Saint Bernard."

CHS Students Win BofA Awards

Twelve seniors at Carmel High School have been honored in the annual Bank of America Achievement Awards program, Principal Arthur Gumbrell announced recently.

Three students were awarded plaques for outstanding achievements in a general field of study: Nicolette Hariri in fine arts; Tatiana Granoff in liberal arts; and Ramon Shorey in vocational arts. They will compete with top students from other schools for cash awards up to $1000.

Nine other students were cited for their superior performance in specific fields of study and will receive merit certificates: Tony Tersol, mathematics; Tim McCarthy, social studies; Douglas Forbes, foreign languages; Kitty Hendrix, drama; Jim Rutledge, music; Melissa Williams, art; and Sherry Chapman, business.

Third Woman Runs For School Board

Third woman to run for the two vacancies on the Carmel School Board is Mrs. Andrea Gill, Carmel housewife and substitute teacher, who moved here from San Marino 14 months ago with her husband Eldon.

The others are Mrs. Barbara Sanford of Carmel Valley and Mrs. Ruth Morrice of Hatton Fields. Also running are the Rev. James Brock of Carmel Valley, present incumbent chosen to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Robert Newton; James I. Miller, Carmel, and Reginald Dewar of Big Sur.

Mrs. Gill is a graduate of California State at Long Beach where she received a master's degree in English literature.

She is the mother of two sons, Greg, 19, and Edward, 22 years old.

Rotarians Hear Harrah

Carmel Rotarians heard Judge Eugene Harrah, a longtime resident of Carmel and a judge for the past eight years describe the functions of our nation's courts at the weekly luncheon meeting yesterday.

Judge Harrah said it is up to the citizens to do something about the prevailing disregard for law and order.

Next week's speaker will be Ben Weaver, the man who knows all there is to know about "Esalen," a name becoming more and more in the news every day.

Lion's Club Speech Contest Won By Jeff Smith of RLS

Jeff Smith, a junior at Robert Louis Stevenson School, Tuesday night won the Carmel division of 32nd annual speech contest sponsored by the California and Nevada Lion's Clubs.

The contest was held at the Lion's Club regular Tuesday meeting at the Mission Ranch, and Smith spoke in competition with three other high school students, a classmate from RLS and two students from Carmel High School.

The subject chosen by the Lion's Clubs for this year's contest was "The Hopes and Fears of the Young Generation," and Smith presented an allegorical comparison between two teen-agers, one a solid type that comprise the bulk of young people today, the other an example of the small group that gives all young people a bad name.

The viewpoints expressed by the four speakers ranged from conservative to liberal, but without extremes on either side.

Representing Carmel High School were Richard Busic, a sophomore, and David Cramer, a junior. They were accompanied by their speech teacher, Miss Diana Hardy.

Jeff Smith's classmate at RLS was Tim Donahoe, a junior, of Pebble Beach. Smith and Donahoe were accompanied by Miss Rosemary Garrison, speech and drama teacher at RLS.

Smith will now compete in the area competition to be held in King City in March. There are five steps in the two-state speech contest, all sponsored by the Lion's Clubs.

FRED STRONG RETIRES

The post office was established by the Post Office Department in Carmel on Dec. 5, 1903, and the first postmaster was John P. Staples, whom Hitchcock identifies as "the uncle of Mrs. Frank Devendorf". Staples, however, did not remain postmaster long, and it appears now to be uncertain where he did his postmastering.

In any event he did not do it long, being replaced Sept. 27, 1904 by Louis Slevin who continued to be postmaster until 1914, and who operated the post office from his store which was just about where Spencer's House of Cards is located today.

On September 16, 1914, there was again a new postmaster, and this time it was L. E. Payne, who conducted his postmastership from a location which was then identified as being next to "Doc" Beck's store, according to two knowledgeable residents of that day and this — Phyllis Appleton, daughter of Carmel Pine Cone founder, Bill Overstreet, and Robert Norton, former city councilman and police chief. And "Doc" Beck's corner was the one now occupied by Womble's Drug Store.

An interesting point about this postmastership was that the Carmel Pine Cone, was born Feb. 1915, in the rear portion of the store at the front of which post office business was done, and the assistant postmaster was Bill Overstreet, Pine Cone founder, whose partners were the widely known writer, Perry Newberry, who later became a mayor of Carmel, and Daisy Bostick. As far as can presently be determined, the store in question is what now makes up the western portion of Womble's pharmacy.

Creative fires were burned brightly in Carmel at this time, and the principal focus for those creative efforts was the local theatre. It was in the summer of 1915 that Perry Newberry's "Junipero Serra" pageant, was presented in the Forest Theatre, and — according to his 'Who's Who in America' sketch — it was just before this that he had been president of the Forest Theater Society which then produced original plays.

The year before, it had produced Sidney Howard's first play, "The Sons of Spain." Later Howard won a Pulitzer prize for his now familiar play, "They Knew What They Wanted." It was in 1915 also that Jack London's play, "The First Poet," was premiered in the Forest Theater.

The next postal chief in Carmel was a postmistress — Stella L. Vincent, who was appointed to the position May 20, 1918, and who was reappointed twice — in 1922, and again in 1926.

During most of this period, the post office continued to be in what is now a portion of Womble's Pharmacy, but it was eventually moved to what is now the Brosche Interiors location on Dolores, where it was situated when Fred Strong first became a regular Carmel postal employee in 1929.

At that time, the postmaster was William Overstreet, who continued to hold the position until 1933, when a Democrat, President Franklin Roosevelt, took office and appointed many new postmasters, including Carmel's.

The new postmistress appointed in Carmel in 1933, was Irene Cator, who was the aunt of Superior Court Judge Gordon Campbell. She continued to hold office until 1939, and it was during her term that the post office was moved from Dolores street to the southwest corner of Mission and Ocean Avenues. Fred Strong says the move was made "about 1935," to this Ocean Avenue location.

Judge Campbell knows that it was located there "for sure" in 1937, because he received the results of the state bar examination he took that year, "at the corner of Mission and Ocean."

To point out once again the close connection in Carmel between the work-a-day world of the post office and creative endeavor, Postmistress Cator's husband was Thomas Vincent Cator who, with Perry Newberry, had co-authored "A Princess of Araby," which had had its first production in the Forest Theater in 1928. Cator later became a distinguished figure in modern-day music in America.

The first postmaster apointed in Carmel under new civil service regulations, was Ernest Bixler who was appointed in 1939 and continued to hold the office until 1951, though this term was interrupted by his long service in the U. S. Navy during World War II.

It was early in Bixler's term — 1941 — when the post office was once again moved — this time to the building now shared by Carmel Realty and Tom Brown's Insurance, on Dolores north of 6th.

And while Bixler was in the Navy — 1942 to 1946 — the acting postmaster was Fred Bechdolt, a long-time Carmel resident and a famous western-story writer, who had also served as a Carmel city councilman.

In July 1951, a new acting postmaster was appointed in Carmel because Bixler resigned at that time. That acting postmaster was Alfred Mollner. His successor was the late Fred Mylar who took office April 1, 1953, and continued to serve until his death, July 2, 1957. Following Mylar was Fred Strong who is now retiring.

It was in the autumn of 1951 that the post office moved to its present location at Dolores & 5th.

And, following Strong's retirement, Assistant Postmaster Bill Woolsey will be in charge of the post office, until a permanent appointment to the postmastership is made.

Meanwhile the post office in Carmel continues to be the daily meeting place for the people of the community — as it has been now, for many, many years.

SOUTH OF OCEAN AVE. — 2 BEDROOMS, 2 BATHS
A near new home, in the choice south of Ocean avenue location, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths in beautiful condition. Completely furnished. $43,500. Exclusive.

HOUSE & GUEST HOUSE ON 2 LOTS — $47,500
An extremely charming house in a delightful, South-of-Ocean setting. The main house has 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, and dining room. The guest house has a legal kitchen, fireplace, studio and bath. The 88' x 100' oak studded site CAN be divided. It's a steel at $47,500.

CARMEL — COMMERCIAL — $45,000
40' x 100', zoned C-1-S. There is an old house on the property, which could produce some income if the property is not developed immediately. Commercial land is very hard to find in Carmel, and this piece is reasonably priced.

RANCHO RIO VISTA LOT FOR $9,750
Imagine being able to buy a lot in a top Carmel area for under $10,000. We can do even better than that, if you'll buy TWO, you can have them BOTH for only $18,500. They're GOOD building sites, too.

SURPRISING VALUE!
Building sites right on the ocean are becoming hard to find but we know of three. One is priced at $55,0000, one at $52,000 and right in the middle physically but not price-wise is what may be the last of the bargains. Nature has done most of the fencing of this 1.46 acre site and from your home you will be able to easily walk to the water's edge. How much? $37,500.

No Sooner Did They Finish Building Their Dream House,

Lavishing all kinds of careful planning, loving attention, and much care to see that all aspects of the construction were first class, and no sooner did SHE add the clever and delightful finishing touches to the decorating, that they were presented with a business opportunity they had long awaited — so now this brand new house, with the "finished look" is available for some lucky family.

It's located in a wooded setting which really sets off its elegance, and the enclosed, wind-free courtyard (walled) is a great spot for sunny hours of pleasure. You'll like the plan, with the living room and family rooms at opposite ends of the house, and you'll agree that the kitchen is a marvel. Bathrooms are beautiful! All the rooms are large, and the ladies in particular will appreciate the full dining room and the really large entry hall.

There are 2500 square feet of organized space in this 3 bedroom home. Two baths and a powder room. A Spanish fireplace in the living room, a fascinating early-day America kind of brick one in the family room. The wallpapers, drapes, carpets are so — oh well, come and see for yourself! When may we show you? (The price is $69,500.)

There's Something "Special"
Original Owners Thought of Everything

AND THE RESULT IS SELF-EVIDENT . . . one of the most delightful homes in the Carmel area.

FIRST, they chose an ideal acre site that offers a view of Point Lobos and the ocean, yet has setting and privacy afforded by native oaks and pines.

SECOND, they consulted an architect with a genuine "feeling" for harmony of site with structure. Together they incorporated all those practical features with the "intangibles" that make a house a HOME: a one-level room arrangement that wastes no space; a Dutch-door entry with bookshelves and closets; two spacious bedrooms; two baths; a third bedroom suitable for a study; a large living room (15' x 31') with carefully proportioned hearth and windows that frame views of the sea through the pines and sliding-door access to an open deck with sunset vistas; a charming morning-sun kitchen in primrose yellow and pale green tones that combine with the light hardwood cabinetry; a separate laundry room with floor-to-ceiling cupboards and a finished light and dry hobby room. Wide, sealed eaves provide a covered walkway from the attached two-car garage with workbench; the silvery grey extrieor finish and heavy shake roof require minimum upkeep.

THEN they chose one of the area's reputable contractors to construct this carefully planned residence of long-lasting materials with quality workmanship.

AND THEN with exceptional gardening skill and artistic taste they landscaped just enough of the natural setting by creating graceful chalk rock retaining walls for irregular beds of ferns, a variety of special shrubs and delicate blossoming trees.

NOW, Reluctantly, due to personal reasons, they plan a change of location and are listing their meticulously maintained home for sale. Truly a prime value on today's market at $65,000.

THE BLOTTER

by c.r. bee

A couple of things continue to be an amazement to me in checking the blotter daily — the frequency with which employees and shop owners open their establishments forgetting to turn off the burglar alarm, and the frequency with which they leave the shop without locking up.

And the two conditions seem to run in bunches.

On Feb. 23, Carmel police responded to four alarms, all accidental trippings, and found three shops unlocked. Only one more alarm for the rest of the week, and sporadic unlocked doors.

Amazing.

On the 23rd, the night of the big rain and blow, the police responded to 13 calls involving downed trees, all calls being turned over to the City street department for tree removal.

One of the trees, on San Carlos near 4th, fell across a driveway and damaged a car parked there.

And almost across the street, on Junipero, a cliff gave way and blocked the road, almost taking a power pole with it. On Wednesday, the street was still not open, and PG&E had moved in a mobile substation to replace a switch that failed in the main power station just above the slide.

The mobile unit came from Santa Cruz, and will be in place for a week or 10 days until a new switch arrives.

On the 25th, a Volkswagen bus was broken into and a tape recorder, 20 tapes and tools, total value $350, stolen.

And a rash of door-to-door subscription salesmen hit Carmel, four women and two men in different groups using the dodge that they were working their way through school. Warned to desist, and they did.

There were two suspected burglaries reported in the evening, and investigation showed screens cut and other signs of attempted entry. Patrols kept a sharp watch for the rest of the night to reassure occupants of the houses.

The Carmel Fire Department had a quiet week, with most calls involving "hot" wires downed by falling trees.

However, the emergency ambulance service was busy, particularly on Saturday, when they responded to four calls on the 22nd.

The ambulance stood by around 2 p.m. while two men in a raft were rescued off San Jose Beach by the Coast Guard. The men couldn't fight their way back to shore against the strong current.

Then at 8:30 p.m., the ambulance went to the aid of victims of a head-on collision on Highway 1 just a mile north of Big Sur.

Leonard Spitzer, and his wife Josephine, of Big Sur, received major injuries in the accident, and David Leslie received moderate injuries. All were transported to Community Hospital.

need for more space than her 18'x34' room since there is often need to isolate a child from the group. Recommended by the state is an area containing 1200 square feet.

Class sizes are limited by law to a maximum of nine pupils. There are now 28 children in the program. The state reimburses the district $13,000 per class.

Halcomb urged that two classes be set up at Tularcitos which now busses children to the one at Carmelo; that a second class be started at Middle School; a class at the high school, and present classes be continued at River and Carmelo schools.

The board formally accepted the Tularcitos School addition — a model three-room primary grade complex with outdoor activity area and approved changes. Total costs of the building—including architect's fees of $6,780, building inspector's salary and carpeting—came to $99,345, of which $94,345 was available in building funds.

Sunset Notes

Festival of Renaissance Music

One of the organizations familiar to Sunset Center patrons will go over the hill to Pacific Grove this weekend when the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society presents its Third Annual Festival of Renaissance Music at the First Methodist Church, Sunset and 17 Mile Drive, Saturday and Sunday, Mar. 1 and 2.

The Festival will be presented in two parts. Each concert is complete in itself and will not duplicate any part of the other concert.

Haymo Taeuber, conductor of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, will direct the 80-voice Chorus and Brass Ensemble at both performances. The Ensemble is composed of four trombones and four trumpets.

The Festival will be held at the First Methodist Church because of the fine acoustics and the great Swain and Kates pipe organ located there, according to Mrs. Violet C. Beahan, president of the Choral Society.

"Renaissance music requires a special type of acoustics to be fully appreciated. There is nothing soft or subdued about Renaissance music. In fact, its amazing how similar it is to the loud and brassy sounds of modern music," says Mrs. Beahan.

"While most of the music dates back to the 14th and 15th Centuries, and is certainly old as music goes, the sounds are quite modern. There's nothing stuffy about it. Most teen-agers would love it.

"The Society has added a special niche to the musical life of the community as well as enriching the lives of the performing members. To anyone who reads music and enjoys singing the larger choral works, we say 'Come and join us,'" Mrs. Beahan concluded.

The first concert will be given on Saturday, March 1 at 8 p.m. The Sunday concert will begin at 3 p.m. Both performances will feature the Chorus, a Madrigal group, the Festival Brass Ensemble, and selected organ works performed by Kenneth Ahrens.

A limited number of tickets are still available. They may be purchased at the Central Box Office, Mission and 6th (May Court), phone 624-6739; the Monterey County Symphony office in the Sunset Center, 8th and San Carlos, Carmel, phone 624-4125; and at the First Methodist Church prior to each performance.

The Choral Society is one of the most highly acclaimed choral groups in the West. The chorus has been performing toegther since 1962 when its founder and former director, John Gosling, organized the group under the auspices of the Monterey Peninsula College.

The present Choral Society was formed as a non-profit organization in 1965. Since then it has undertaken extremely ambitious programming.

One of its most unique offerings has been the annual Festival of Renaissance Music. The Society also presents each Christmas a concert at the Carmel Mission Basilica. Last year it presented Haydn's "Creation" at the Mission, under the direction of Mr. Taeuber.

For further information about the Choral Society contact Mrs. Violet C. Beahan at 624-2838, or write Box 272, Carmel.

McEwen New Chairman

The new chairman of the Carmel Planning Commission is Charles McEwen, of Catlin-McEwen Realty, who was elected to the position at the Commission's annual meeting late yesterday afternoon.

Before coming to Carmel to make his permanent home in 1958, McEwen had been engaged in real estate subdivision and development work in Stockton. He succeeds Architect Fred Keeble as head of the city planning group. Named as vice chairman of the Commission is Dorothy von Meier, a veteran member and former planning chairman.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT WARNING

Recent heavy rains and flooding conditions have inundated many domestic wells in the county. The water in these wells may be contaminated and should not be used for domestic purposes until it has been purified by boiling or chlorinating.

Information on ways to properly disinfect water systems may be obtained by calling the Monterey County Health Department office at 424-7627.
